“Achieving ISO 9001:2015 certification is a huge step forward for the TPMS division and ATEQ as an organization. Being a customer-driven and global company, it’s important that we hold ourselves to a high standard that’s recognized internationally so our partners and customers have 100% assurance that the products they’re using are of the highest quality,” said Eri Muca, Global Aftermarket TPMS Manager. “I am extremely proud of my team for dedicating themselves to achieving this goal. Everyone at ATEQ TPMS is committed to maintaining this ISO 9001:2015 accreditation.”

Being ISO 9001 certified provides a framework and set of standards that ensure conformity among the ATEQ organization to consistently satisfy customers and partners. ATEQ takes pride in strong quality control standards and has put in the time, effort and dedication into making sure ATEQ products are the best they can possibly be.
